Let's All Meet In ST. LOUIS for SCI's 22nd Convention July 13 through 17

Steins, plaques, pokals, beakers, drinking horns, wedding cups, and other unusual drinking vessels — the interest in and the love for these items have brought us all together. What Tom McClelland started 23 years ago has grown to 1650 collectors worldwide, with 22 chapters located throughout the United States and Europe.

It is that time of year again when a large group of stein collectors will be gathering for the 22nd Annual Stein Collectors International Convention in Saint Louis, Missouri, at the Omni International Hotel for 4 fun-filled days of buying, selling, trading, learning and sharing.

We have heard Jack Lowenstein say many times that even if there were no steins, he would still want to have conventions just to be with friends. We know many of our members feel the same way.

The Omni International Hotel is more than a hotel, it's an event. Behind the imposing facade of this national historic landmark is the most exciting meeting concept in years. A shopping, dining, entertainment and conference center, gift-wrapped in one of the country's most intriguing sightseeing attractions, St. Louis' Union Station. It's virtually a destination in itself. Constructed in 1894, Union Station is one of the most impressive examples of a breed of buildings which includes New York's Grand Central Station and Union Station in Washington D.C.: valuable and revered achievements in architecture. It's a magnet for local and out-of-town visitors and a focal point for the city's nightlife. Located at 1820 Market Street, Center City, it is on the main thoroughfare running ten blocks through the heart of the business district, all the way to the river front and magnificent Gateway Arch, the symbol of St. Louis renaissance. Within walking distance of Union Station are Busch Stadium and The Towers of St. Louis Centre, a unique office/shopping and entertainment complex, and the nearby nightspots of Laclede's Landing are a mecca after dark.

The three women in the Tiffany stained glass window on the cover of Prosit represent three great cities of America: New York on the right, San Francisco on the left and in the center, Saint Louis, the cross roads of America.

As a meeting destination, St. Louis is admirably sited at the hub of Amtrak rail service from most every part of the nation. Twenty minutes from St. Louis Union Station, Lambert Municipal Airport is a maximum of four hours flying time from every major metropolitan area in the continental U.S. and just a mile from St. Louis Union Station (interstate highways 44, 64, and 70 converge and intersect with Route 40) — see map.

We're easy to reach from everywhere, so don't hesitate one more day to send in those reservation forms. "No Can Find", contact Ike Schenk, 4130 Haven Street, St. Louis MO 63116 or call 314-858-8449.

The last convention in St. Louis was in 1970 and was very well attended. Join us once more. A detailed program will be furnished to all attendees upon arrival so you may know what is happening where and when.

e. Les Paul, Golden Gate Zecher chapter, stated that the 1992 Convention will be held within the city of San Francisco.

f. Bill Bosworth, Pacific Stein Sammler chapter, suggested a cruise from Portland or Seattle to Alaska as a convention event. He will look into this further for the 1994 convention.

h. Les Paul presented the new SCI Information Brochure. Since the area indicating where to send one's check was left blank, Jack Lowenstein moved "only the treasurer's name and address be put on the new membership brochure, via use of an address label at this time." Motion passed.
